Bangladesh

Has been officially admitted to the first edition of the Erasmus Mundus Joint Master in Global Change Ecology and Biodiversity Management – offered by the Universidad Rey Juan Carlos (Madrid, Spain, Coordinating Institution), Bangor University (Bangor, UK), Universidade de Lisboa (Lisboa, Portugal) and Universidad Autónoma de Tlaxcala (Tlaxcala, Mexico) for the 2025-2027 intake. The programme will start in September 2025 at Universidad Rey Juan Carlos (Madrid, Spain) and will finish in September 2027. This programme is co-funded by the Erasmus+ Programme of the EACEA (Project 101180104 — GLOBE).

The student has been awarded an Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Scholarship to support their studies throughout the duration of the programme. This scholarship amounts to €1,400 per month. This monthly stipend is sufficient to cover travel, visa, settlement, and subsistence costs for the duration of the programme. The scholarship is provided for the full 24-month academic period.

The student will also be covered by a comprehensive insurance scheme that fully complies with the requirements set by the European Education and Culture Executive Agency of the European Union (EACEA-EU) for the Erasmus Mundus Joint Master programmes. The insurance will be valid during the full period of study and mobility across the different partner institutions, from July 2025 to November 2027, starting from covering two months before the start of the programme and two months after its completion

In terms of accommodation, we will assist and support the student in finding suitable accommodation for their stay.

The GLOBE programme will involve the following mobility scheme:

- 1st Semester: Universidad Rey Juan Carlos, Madrid, Spain
- 2nd Semester: Bangor University, United Kingdom
- Summer Camp (3 weeks): Universidad Autónoma de Tlaxcala, Mexico
- 3rd Semester: Universidade de Lisboa, Portugal
- 4th Semester (Thesis): At any of the partner universities of your choice within the consortium
